

Numbers boost for SES

Palm Island Emergency Services have received a welcomed increase in its membership after working closely with Campbell Page, the SES and Rural Fire Service to take advantage of the work for the dole program.

Campbell Page participants can join the SES and Rural Fire as part of their job plan agreement and receive emergency service training in both areas.

SES trainer Ian Neale said it was a win-win situation.

"The the island gets a larger and more capable emergency service group, and the members get some lifelong skills and formal qualifications in Certificate II and III in Public Safety.

"This is all while undertaking an essential community service which may lead to employment opportunities.

"The project also helps us provide better options for training for our other volunteer members."

He said previous SES and Rural Fire members were encouraged to parade on Monday nights to discuss options for participating in the additional training being provided.

Council hosts conference for women

The first women's conference held by the Palm Island Aboriginal Shire Council had a huge turnout with some great outcomes, participants said. Women from different organisations such as PICC, Solas, Hospital, Rehab and Justice Group were all in attendance. High on the agenda was health, and particularly diabetes. Townsville meeting puts youth suicide on the agenda

More than 200 people looked at the issue of youth suicide at a meeting in Townsville earlier this month.

Community activist Professor Gracelyn Smallwood said the meeting was called by the local Human Rights Committee to highlight the widening gap and youth suicide.

"There is literally billions of dollars going to mostly white services," she said. "Black services need to be culturally competent.

"Organisations and Government who receive Indigenous funding must start to be accountable and transparent, as well as collaborate with other providers."

She said the key issue was why was Indigenous youth suicide across Northern Australia the highest in the world.

"Why is poverty and unemployment not being addressed?" Professor Smallwood said.

"We believe the meeting has been a success as the mob receiving our earmarked funds have been put on notice of their transparency and accountability."

Palm Island, thanks for reducing your water usage

"We can't predict the weather, particularly for Palm, and it's the same for all the Shires throughout the north, we are drought-affected until we get more good solid rain, such as we have seen over the past week or so," Cr Lacey says.

"I want to thank the residents for adhering to the water restrictions and getting involved with the Water Wise campaign," he said.

"The scenario now is the desalination plant, which is not only for our drinking supply but also for treating our sewer water.

"We'll have to maintain our vigilance on the water restriction in the community, especially given that Palm Island's population is growing.

"It will take everyone on the Island to be involved."

CEO Ross Norman said the Island had definitely had some good rainfall over the past week.

"On Thursday last week Palm received 107mm and on Friday another 45mm," he said.

"Silver Creek is flowing and there is a good quantity of water flowing into Francis Creek dam.

"There has been some water flowing into Solomon dam (main dam) but not in the same quantities as Francis.

"However, both dams are still way below capacity."

PCYC ready to roll

Palm Island PCYC has said farewell to Branch Manager Brady Walmsley and welcomed new Relieving Branch Manager, Scott Pogan last week.

Scott will remain at the PCYC until the arrival of the new and permanent Branch Manager in April.

Scott has a background with children, sports, small communities and youth involvement, and looks forward to working with the community from the Palm Island PCYC over the next few weeks.

He said they were already working on their Easter School Holidays activity program, and looking forward to working with other agencies.

"We hope to offer discos, activities, arts, crafts and cultural heritage experiences and activities for our community," he said.

"Once confirmed our Holiday Program will be circulated to the community with dates and locations of our activities."

He said PCYC was also keen to recruit volunteers from within the community to support their activities "We're looking for volunteers in the area of community radio, youth and childcare," Scott said.

"If you feel you have experiences or skills for an activity to support the activity areas outlined above come to the PCYC or contact me on the number below.

"As PCYC we want to support and encourage myriad of activities through community engagement."

Meanwhile, he said, the senior's social indoor soccer and netball competitions started last Tuesday (8 March) and would be ongoing.

"Indoor Soccer will be held on Tuesday evenings with the Netball Competition to be held on Thursday evenings," he said.
"Both competitions run from 5:30—7:30pm and were "all age", with children over 13 welcome to get involved.

"I heard last year's competitions were a great mix of teachers, health and hospital staff, tradies, justice, Police, Ambos, and keen community members getting involved.

"We are looking forward to having a good turnout for this year's competitions."

ALSO COMING UP ...

Palm Island PCYC is holding a celebration of things cultural at 5pm on the afternoon of Monday 21 March to celebrate Harmony Day and Australia's cultural diversity.

"It's about inclusiveness, respect and a sense of belonging for everyone," Scott said. "There will be activities, prizes, give-aways and a sausage sizzle BBQ for guests to enjoy. I hope to see everyone come out for some fun!"

For more information you can call Scott on 4770 1793 or drop into the PCYC and say 'qidday'.

BOXING NEWS BOXING NEWS

A HEAT wave on Palm Island has affected the preparation of local boxers who are competing on the Sunstate Amateur Boxing League tournament card at Bohle Barn Hotel in Townsville this Saturday.

It is being organised by Scooter Hooper of the Art of the high thirties in the past Strength Club.

Hooper has been a big supporter of the Palm Club having travelled to the Island for the tournament last year.

Palm Island PCYC Boxing Club trainer Ray Dennis said with temperatures in week, few boxers had been training.

"At this stage I think Patrick Clarke and Arona Miller will be fighting on the card and maybe a few others," he said.

Mr Dennis said Leelan

Sibley, who had shone for Palm Island during 2015, was training at Abergowrie College near Ingham.

"Leelan will fight under our club banner," he said.

The heat ensured no Palm fighters travelled to Charters Towers for Saturday's tournament last weekend.

Army 'invasion' will be no match for Skipjacks

"We'll be bigger, stronger and faster this year..." these are the defining and confident words of Palm Island Skipjacks coach Alex Morgan about the looming rugby league showdown against Australian Army Thunder for the Bill Coolburra Memorial Shield next month.

"Looking forward to the clash, can't wait mate," he added.

It is expected a huge crowd of locals will be at the local football oval to support the lads - Palm Islanders are fanatical rugby league supporters and will be out in force for the game in which the stakes are high.

There will also be an invasion, pardon the pun, of Army players, officials and supporters from the mainland.

Star forward Raoul Miller said the feeling amongst players was they could win in front of a home crowd.

"We will have a stacked side and I think we can win it," he said.

The stakes will be high as both sides have won four of the eight previous encounters.

Before the game a memorial service will be held at the Palm Island cemetery in honour of Mr Coolburra.

A ferry will take visiting players, officials and Palm Islanders living on the mainland to the island for the match which will start at 11am on Thursday 14 April.
