Help with gardens on the way

Woorabinda residents have an opportunity to develop edible and ornamental gardens - good for health and wellbeing! – thanks to the Council and Rockhampton-based company, Synergy Consultancy.

Mehraban (Men) Farahmand has already done some work with Aunty Di, and is keen to work with other individuals and families.

His organisation is about encouraging gardeners to get amongst it - he can particularly help with installing therapeutic gardens in domestic and commercial premises, and facilitating individual and group garden therapy activities.

He said he was keen to work with all our families and bring a pragmatic approach to horticulture – he saw each individual as playing a part.

Aunty Di said she was keen to get her gardens going, including revisiting the growing of chillies to harvest and pickle to account for a high demand in the community.

In time, she said, she wants to have an herb garden in her backyard.

She also took Men to the bush apple tree near the PCYC office in the hope of finding a way to rejuvenate its growth.

This week Men planned to work on giving the tree a new lease on life with a hard prune of those dead branches.
